

James Cowie - Director

James is a third generation professional photographer with a passion for sharing the art of capturing images through adventure travel. Over thirty years experience in the photo industry, combined with his 14 plus years of travel, and knowledge of our tour destinations, guests enjoy an enriching experience while expanding their photographic knowledge, skills and the art of observation.

James' number one belief is to have fun with your camera. The more comfortable and relaxed you are when out on an adventure, the better your observation, resulting in more exciting images. Add in his sense of humour, and you will find yourself looking at the world in a different light, coming home with great memories, new friends and amazing images.

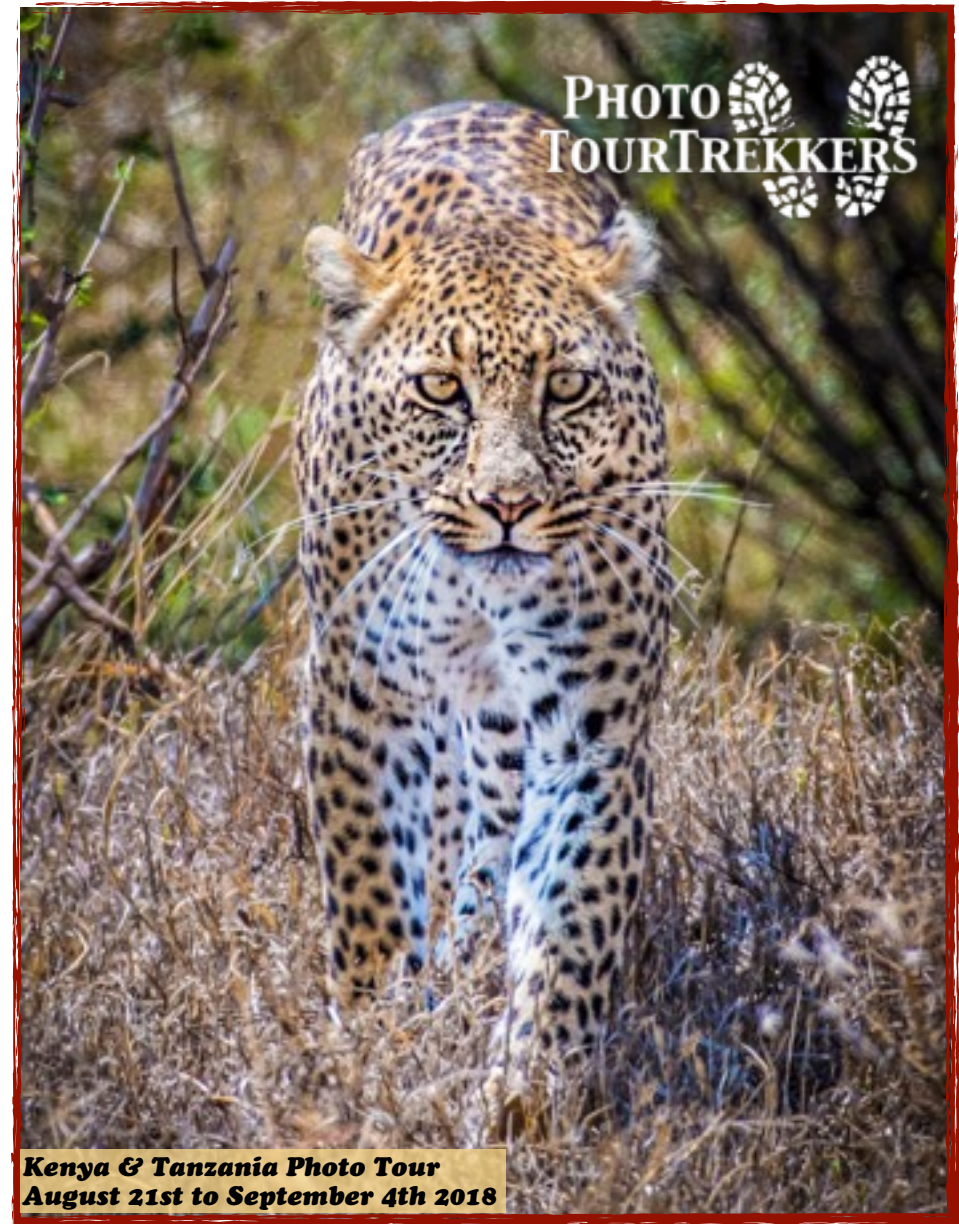

Dave Chidley - Western Canada

Travel and photography for me, has always been synonymous. As a professional photographer, working mostly in the journalism world I've had tremendous opportunities to travel, meet people and photograph memorable experiences. Those three decades of work experience is a natural stepping-stone to my involvement with Photo Tour Trekkers.

Working with our guests, photographing some amazing experience and sharing our collective knowledge is what Trekkers is all about.

Dave has been teaching photography for many years to all sorts of groups and abilities, from camera clubs, to high school classes, to university and college courses. You won't find a more enjoyable way to learn than with a like-minded group, while witnessing some of nature's most spectacular destinations.
